THE BASICS

Where is this job located?

Swipe Out Hunger is a fully remote organization with staff located across the United States. Sydnie Monegan, the supervisor for the Relationship Coordinator role, is located in Houston, TX. A few times throughout the year (team retreats, conferences, in-person meetings), staff will be asked to travel.

What is the start date?

This position will begin Tuesday, January 2, 2024

What is the salary for this role?

$65,000

What are the typical working hours?

Staff generally work between 9am-5pm according to their time zone with the understanding that occasionally a meeting may start before or end after a typical work day. We appreciate the flexibility of the remote work space and encourage folks to find a cadence that supports their lifestyle.

What benefits does Swipe Out Hunger offer?

This is a full-time, non-exempt position. Swipe Out Hunger provides a supportive benefits package, including 100% coverage for medical, dental, and vision benefits. We also offer 401K retirement matching after 6 months tenure, flex time, a $500/year professional development stipend, and an initial $400 ‘Work Comfortably from Home' fund to make your space yours within your first year.
What is it like working at Swipe Out Hunger?

Swipe Out Hunger aims to be a human-first workplace. We are a mighty and growing team who over the past year has scaled college and university partnerships from 150 campuses to 725+. We are intentional about how we carry out our work, and balance the inherent need our partners face to support students’ basic needs. As a deeply committed team, we are serious and professional about our programmatic operations and how we interact in the workplace, and at the same time don’t take ourselves too seriously. We care deeply about one another, celebrate wins together as a team, and center our mission and students everyday. Additionally, we are constantly understanding how to continue supporting staff and their well-being.

THE ROLE

Who does the Relationship Coordinator report to?

You will report to Sydnie Monegam (she/her), Director of Programs at Swipe Out Hunger and a member of the Swipe Out Hunger programs team.

What are the values of the Swipe Out Hunger team?

- We center our campus communities. We are stronger when our campus partners have what they need to thrive. In our role, we convene, put students first, invite people and community in. We make space for anyone interested in supporting students’ basic needs...yes, you can sit with us.
- We take risks and default towards action. Our curiosity outweighs our personal and professional fears. We show up every day knowing we must test, listen, learn, provoke in order to best serve. Through this, we remain strategically advantageous, finding opportunities to have outsized impact.
- We welcome vulnerability. We embrace and make space for vulnerability as a pathway to authentic connection, joy, and trust. We voice fears, concerns, dreams and hopes and in doing so, we deepen our trust within one another. This means we can ask tough questions and truly kick the tires on our programs, leading to work that is cutting edge, effective and inclusive.
- We plan, communicate, and live with integrity. Our communication is clear, direct, and mission centered. We remind each other that change is constant, so we must be like water. Just like our programs which evolve each year, we are adaptive. Our work place of integrity is possible because we trust each other.

What are the mission, vision and values of the Operations department?

- Mission: Swipe Out Hunger ensures organizational health and staff well-being through an engaging and equitable workplace.
- Vision: Swipe Out Hunger is a financially healthy organization where employees have clear, personalized goals, training, and support from recruitment to offboarding.
- Values: Accountability, Transparency, Responsibility, Empathy, Inquisitiveness

Why is this an opportune time to join Swipe Out Hunger?

With the acquisition of CUFBA (College and University Food Bank Alliance) in 2021, Swipe Out Hunger is scaling its program and has the opportunity to continue to deeply engage colleges and universities with their anti-hunger and basic needs programming. Additionally, as an advocacy leader through the Hunger Free Campus bill, we address the issue from a multitude of perspectives and entry points. The team is growing as well as the organizational impact.
What does success look like in this role after 12 months at Swipe Out Hunger? [see link to 2022-24 Strategic Plan]

- Increased campus engagement (participation in surveys, webinars, submission of grant applications, presence on online community) to 65%, currently at 50%
- Helped create a community amongst campus partners to encourage support in their, oftentimes, siloed work. (Ex: connecting campuses with gardening programs)
- Developed strong understanding of Swipe Out Hunger policies, procedures pertaining to HR, and use of technology in the most efficient and effective way possible.
- Working knowledge of Swipe Out Hunger’s organizational structure and operational calendar
- Alongside the Director of Programs, redefined the network partner development, and engagement programming to be more seamless and automated.
- Supported the strategy and evaluation of partner engagement efforts through strong data practices
- Established an extensive grasp of the campus partner lifecycle

What may be some challenges that arise?

- Our work is rapidly expanding and therefore we as a team remain nimble, iterate, and embrace change.
- We are in a remote environment and have to be intentional about engaging with one another and our staff. This takes effort, supportive structures, and a willingness to lean into a new remote working environment.

What is it like working with Sydnie Monegan, Director of Programs?

Sydnie joined Swipe Out Hunger in March 2023 and has dove right into all things Swipe Out Hunger. Previous to joining, Sydnie served as Director of the Women's Resource Center at Chicago State University, where she created food justice programs in underserved communities of Chicago, Illinois and also launched the University Food Pantry. This experience has translated to a deep understanding of implementing programs at the community and university levels. She is a proponent of data supported practices to support organizational impact, and values people and spaces that are mission-centered, inquisitive, and collaborative. Sydnie is passionate about Swipe Out Hunger’s mission and wants to create a supportive workplace where Swipe staff feel encouraged to make a difference in the fight against student hunger.
What is Swipe Out Hunger doing to further Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) at the organization?

Swipe Out Hunger is committed to understanding and implementing a JEDI lens and framework to its internal and external operations. We recently underwent organization-wide exercises to identify where the organization has opportunities for greater equity and inclusion. Additionally, as a nonprofit whose mission is to address food insecurity, we recognize that historically marginalized folks experience food insecurity at higher rates and are constantly using human centered design to carry out programming, communications, and fundraising that uplifts those we work with on a daily basis. Our work in JEDI is a long-term process and we are looking for team members open to learning and unlearning alongside each of us.

Is the application process confidential?

Yes, your application will be reviewed by a few folks at the organization and will be part of a completely confidential process. Please reach out to swipeouthungercareers@swipehunger.org with any questions.

Is it possible to speak with someone at Swipe Out Hunger about the role?

To uphold equity in the process we are not speaking with any applicants outside of the formal application process. Please reach out to swipeouthungercareers@swipehunger.org with any questions.
